NATALIE MINUNZIE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Natalie Minunzie, gifted young mezzo soprano, of Blaimore, won the senior vocal championship at the BC musical festival at Vancouver recently in competition with first place winners of the class "A" soloists. This is the third time that Miss Minunzie has been awarded top honors during the festival. She previously had obtained first place in the operatic solo open class and the mezzo soprano "A."

In the competition, Dr. Ernesto Vinci said of her singing in "O sleep, why dost thou leave us," Handel: "I can only praise everything she gave us. The difficult first phrase of the song had a master touch. She sang with a lovely quality of tone all through the song."

MOUNT ROYAL COLLEGE SYMPHONY CONCERT

Mount Royal College, Calgary, will June the 4th at Victoria pavilion present the final symphony concert under the distinguished conductorship of Jaucha Galperin. LOCAL MINE OFFICIAL PASSES

Death claimed another of Blaimore's oldtimers on Saturday last in the person of John Rainton Smith in his sixty-fifth year.

Mr. Smith had been resident of Blaimore and in the employ of the West Canadian Collieries since 1910, when he arrived from Port Alberni, BC, where he had been in the employ of the CPR on survey and as second officer on a Canadian Pacific liner between Canada and the Orient.

The late Mr. Smith was born in England. He was an enthusiastic golfer and member of the local Masonic lodge. For a number of years he was secretary of the Rocky Mountain Branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. He is survived by his wife.

Funeral service, under Masonic auspices, was held in the United church on Monday at 1 p.m., with Rev. J. McKelvey in charge. Following the service the remains were shipped to Calgary by train for cremation.

Mrs. Smith was accompanied to Calgary by Mrs. L. L. Morgan by auto during the afternoon.

A number of other local friends journeyed to Calgary during Monday afternoon and early Tuesday to attend the last rites, including quite a number of officials of the company.

PULL TOGETHER CANADA

Any bushman will tell you that if a man doesn't know where he is then it's a sure thing that he doesn't know where he's going. A banker was once heard to put it this way: "I don't care where a man's bank balance is, it's where he's heading that is important."

It's important today that people know where they're heading. That's true of our political and national leaders, but it's also necessary for the ordinary voter. Much of the planning of our experts is made impossible by the living of the ordinary person.

Where are we heading? There seems to be two schools of thought abroad today: The one that believes and hopes and prays for a new and better world and the other, who, much as they want this, feel it is impossible to build. Many who fall into this latter group do so through lack of a practical programme, whereby they can take part in building something better.

A small book published a year or so ago has been brought up to date and just reprinted—it is the answer to this need. It is called "Pull Together Canada," and outlines a simple three-point programme in which everyone can have a part—sound homes, teamwork in industry, and unity in the nation. It takes twelve minutes to read, but a lifetime to live.

There is the need for a programme in every country and editions of this book have been printed in the United States, where it is going into its second million; in Britain, Switzerland and most recently in Holland, where it was taken by the liberating British armies.

POLICE VETERAN PASSES AT THE COAST

Former assistant superintendent of the old Alberta Provincial Police, a veteran of the R.N.W.M.P., J. D. Nicholson, who died at Victoria, BC, recently, was an uncle of Sgt. J. A. Cawsey, of the RCMP at Lethbridge and formerly of Blaimore. His death brought to an end a colorful career as soldier, prospector, explorer, sailor and for more than forty years a policeman. He was a veteran of the Boer war. In Canada in 1909 he offered his services to the RCMP and was accepted at his former rank of detective staff-sergeant and posted to the intelligence branch of the CIB at Ottawa, where he remained till the fall of 1942, when he retired.

Banks throughout Alberta remained open on Victoria Day.

CROW AND MAGPIE CAMPAIGN

The Alberta government has set aside the sum of $5,000 to be used this year for continuing the crow and magpie campaign on an increased scale in comparison with previous years. The damage and destruction caused by these pests is well known and a determined effort to do all possible towards their elimination will justify the increased expenditure to be made this year. Should additional funds be required for this project they will be provided by the Alberta government.

In previous years the practice of the department has been to set aside definite sums of money annually for the carrying out of this work. These sums were allocated to the Alberta Fish and Game Association for payment to the various branches throughout the province to be used in carrying out the campaigns. Last year a sum of $3,000 was turned over by the department to the association in this connection.

Donations for this purpose, to be added to amounts to be supplied by the department, has also been made for some years now by Ducks Unlimited. Last year's contribution from this organization totalled $1,500 with an additional $300 for administration purposes. This year, in view of the department's agreement to pay all amounts required for this campaign, it is understood that Ducks Unlimited are paying the sum of $2,000 to be applied on administration costs.

A lad of 19 has been arrested at Winnipeg, charged in connection with the armed robbery of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Ayr, Ontario, on May 9th, in which the loot consisted of about $69,000 in cash and bonds. The police found $1,500 on his person and $2,350 in his hotel room. A girl pal was also arrested.

Victoria Day in Cowley was observed by a baseball tournament arranged by the Young People's Society. The weather was promising, but later in the day a couple of showers slowed up the proceedings. Teams from Hillcrest and Blaimore drew first play, resulting in a win for Blaimore 3-1. Next game, between Michel-Natal and Pincher Creek, was won by the former 7-1. Finals between Blaimore and Michel-Natal was won by the latter 5-4. A dance in the evening was well attended and on the whole, despite threatening weather, the day was a success.

To get team work, give it.

The new British plastic material, polythene, has been applied to combating malaria among allied troops in the Far East. It is now being used in a novel form of air and watertight packaging for millions of tablets of mepacrine, the British-discovered anti-malarial drug. Rigorous tests have shown that polythene is absolutely unaffected by tropical heat.

Winston Churchill

AS THE WAR IN EUROPE becomes a part of the past, certain personalities and events stand out clearly when we recall that long and desperate struggle. To the people of the Allied nations, and particularly to those of the British Empire, the figure of Winston Churchill will remain a symbol of the courage and determination which brought us to final victory. Long before it was generally realized that Nazi Germany was preparing to destroy the peace of the whole world, Mr. Churchill had foreseen what was to happen, and had warned the British people of this approaching danger. His warnings were not heeded at that time, but in May, 1940, when Germany had conquered almost all of Europe, and an invasion of Britain appeared imminent, he was called upon to lead the government.

People Inspired By His Oratory

When he took office, Mr. Churchill did not permit the serious situation caused by the fall of France and the evacuation of the British Army from Dunkirk, to alter his determination to "to wage war against Germany. He declared that British policy would be "to wage war by sea, land and air with all our might and with all the strength that God can give us." This was the first of many stirring messages which inspired the people of the Empire and of all the freedom-loving nations, to have hope and faith that Germany would some day be defeated. Striking passages from his wartime speeches have been quoted so often that they might now be considered to be immortal, and there is no doubt but that these speeches will live on in English history and literature.

Leadership In World Affairs

Mr. Churchill inspired the people of Britain and of the Empire, with courage and hope during what may have been the darkest hour in our history. In international affairs, his leadership has been equally wise and courageous. When Russia was attacked, he undertook to establish closer and more friendly relations between that country and his own. He likewise did much to strengthen Anglo-American relations, which are so important both in war and in peace. By his personal friendship with the leaders of Russia and the United States he helped greatly to foster the complete unity of purpose which was necessary to bring the enemy to the point of unconditional surrender. Without doubt Mr. Churchill will be as well known to future generations as he is to us today, for his great and gallant leadership during one of the darkest periods of history.

Kept In Caves

Britain's Art Treasures Will Soon Be On Display Again

Britain has begun to "unearth" her art treasures from their secret wartime hiding places. Soon they will be displayed again in their splendid untouched—in their old homes throughout the country, says the London Daily Mail. Sir Kenneth Clark, Director of the National Gallery and Surveyor of the King's Pictures, has been to see them in caves in a Welsh mountainside. In caverns as big as parish churches and 300 feet below ground, Rembrandt's "Jewish Rabbi," Velazquez's "Venus and Cupid" (the Rokeby Venus), Titian's "Bacchus and Ariadne," Tintoretto's "Origin of the Milky Way" have remained undisturbed for more than five years. So, too, have Turner's "Bridge of Sighs" and his famous water colors and example of all the modern foreign schools, including Van Gogh, Gauguin, and Manet—with hundreds of other priceless works.

A GENEROUS GIFT

Sir James Dunn, president of the Algoma Steel Corporation, Sault Ste. Marie, has turned over the property known as Cedarhurst to be converted into a convalescent home for returned soldiers. Cedarhurst is a beautiful property on the brow of the hill overlooking the expanse of St. Mary's river.

A Simple Solution

Children In U.S. Town Found Easy Way To Settle Difficulty

Children have the gift of solving things directly, easily and sometimes brilliantly. They do not refer questions back to dubious standards and they ignore precedent. Something happened recently in Germantown, Pennsylvania, which perfectly illustrates this peculiar gift—we heard of it through a friend. In Germantown there are two schools, one predominantly colored, one predominantly white. The gangs of little boys from the two schools often play together. One day they invented a new game called Race Riot, but when they got assembled to play it they discovered that there were more white boys than colored boys. Clearly the thing was out of balance and unfair. What to do? Like a flash the children had the answer. The foreign number of white boys promptly volunteered to play colored, and the race riot proceeded with even numbers, in perfect equality. Adults, we feel, would have had the devil's own time with a situation like that. —The New Yorker.

Cleaning Blitzed Areas

German Prisoners Of War Have Started Work In Britain

German prisoners of war in Britain have started to clear blitzed areas in preparation for housing sites. In a few months it is expected more than 500,000 prisoners will be employed in the task. Unions have agreed on rates of pay and hours of work and the ministry of work has said that not one British workman will be out of a job because of the plan.

Since the fall of 1939, more than 30,000 Canadians have been the victims of tuberculosis and at least 75,000 were affected by the disease.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Am I allowed to increase the rent on my house? I have spent quite an amount of money on it on improvements.

A.—If expenditure for improvements amounts to not less than 10 per cent. of the assessed value of the accommodation, then a landlord is entitled to apply to the rentals appraiser to increase the rent. You are not permitted, however, to raise the rent without permission being first received from the Rentals Department of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Q.—Every time I buy meat I seem to pay a different price for exactly the same thing. Would you give me a list of ceiling prices for the various cuts?

A.—Every butcher is forced to display price charts in a prominent place so that all meat prices can be checked by the customer before purchasing. If charts on meat prices are not displayed, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board should be notified.

Q.—Will our graduating class be permitted to wear long gowns for the graduation exercises this June?

A.—At the present time the long gowns displayed in stores are to be purchased only by brides or members of religious orders. If the Board permitted the manufacture of long dresses, it would involve not only the one-and-a-quarter yards added to each dress, but the extra cost for the slip as well. The textile situation is increasingly serious.

Q.—Are visitors from the United States entitled to ration coupons? A.—Visitors from the U.S. who require temporary ration cards may obtain them on application to a local ration board, providing the visitors are going to remain in Canada five days or longer.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumer News" or "The Wartime Book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Home Decoration

Color Is An Important Item In Interior Work

Color is one of the most important phases of home decoration, and paint supplies the cheapest and best means of bringing color to a home. It was stressed by speakers at a series of McGill University lectures on "Building and Equipping a Home."

Color can be used to make a room look wider or narrower, higher or lower, small or more spacious at the desire of the occupier, said Edythe Shuter, well-known Montreal interior decorator. "Nevertheless," she stressed, that hard and fast rules regarding color and color combinations can't be laid down, since colors that cheer one person might have special associations that depress others.

"Confidence in color comes with knowing just what it will do and how to make it do it," said Miss Shuter. "You will never have to shy away from a strong color, or a clear intense shade, if you know exactly how much of it to use, what to use it with, and what effect it will have on its surroundings."

GEMS OF THOUGHT

THE GOSPEL

Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.—Matthew 4:23.

So comprehensive are the doctrines of the gospel, that they involve all moral truth known by man; so extensive are the precepts, that they require every virtue, and forbid every sin.—Warren.

The shifting systems of false religion are continually changing their places; but the gospel of Christ is the same forever.—Cuyler.

My heart has always assured and reassured me that the gospel of Christ must be a divine reality.—Daniel Webster.

The divinity of St. John's Gospel brings to view overwhelming tides of revelation, and its spirit is baptismal; he chronicles this teaching. "A new commandment I give unto you. That ye love one another—Mary Baker Eddy.

There is not a book on earth so favorable to all the kind and to all the sublime affections, or so unfriendly to hatred, persecution, tyranny, injustice, and every sort of malice as the gospel.—Beattie.

Canada's Forest Wealth

Includes Principal Resources Of Softwoods Within The British Empire

Canada's forests cover an area of 1,220,400 square miles, or more than one-third of the total land area of the country. The accessible productive portion of the forests covers 430,000 square miles, and it is from this area that the whole output of sawlogs, pulpwood, fuelwood, and other primary products is obtained. About 34,000 square miles of forests, classified as productive but not at present accessible, form a reserve for the future when transportation systems may be more highly developed. By far the larger part of the world demand for wood is for softwood, or coniferous species. Canada possesses the principal reserves of softwoods within the British Empire, and these include large supplies of the most desirable varieties—spruces, Douglas fir, western hemlock, western red cedar, and white, red, and other pines. In addition, the eastern provinces furnish hardwoods, such as birches, maples and elms, which are particularly useful for special purposes.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MEET A CWAC—

"The Littlest CWAC" is probably the title most applicable to diminutive, four foot eight and one half inch Pte. Gladys Frew of North Battleford, Sask. Four foot eight and one half inches of CWAC, according to the lady in question, claim to four foot nine inches—"with my shoes on," she confesses. For the first few months after joining the army in June, 1943, she was the quarter-master stores greatest headache. Finally, however, they got a uniform small enough for her and now she proudly trips about in her smartly fitting outfit and neat little pair of "Size Ones." Her shoes and the rest of her feet are especially important to Pte. Frew since dancing is her career. Her specialty is an acrobatic ballet, the routine entirely of her own creation. Besides being a dancer, she is qualified as a typewriter stenographer and it was this special qualification that led to her enlistment in the C.W.A.C. Born in Boston at an early age. Her only brother is in the navy.

Young Bill—Look at your old worn boots, and your father a shoemaker. You ought to be ashamed of them.

Young Phil—That's nothing, your baby brothers got only one tooth, and your father's a dentist.

"Did they take an X-ray photo of your wife's jaw at the hospital?" "They tried to, but they could only get a moving picture."

Man in Next Row—And is it any business of yours what I'm telling my wife?

Cyril—You may spurn me, but remember I shall not always be a clerk at $20 a week!

Marie—That's just the trouble. You may lose your job at any time.

Husband—What extravagance! You have two hats to match that one dress.

Wife—Oh, no, I haven't. I've only one dress to match the two hats.

"You told that man it was five minutes' walk to the station, and it's a good twenty minutes."

"Yes, but he was nice and polite and he seemed so tired."

He (nervously)—Elizabeth, darling, there is something that has been troubling on my lips for months and months.

She—Yes, so I see; why don't you shave it off?

Missionary—And do you know nothing whatever about religion?

Cannibal—Well, we got a taste of it when the last missionary was here.

"Jim recommended that new restaurant to me if I wanted some good roast beef."

"How was it?"

"It was a bum steer."

Dad—Who was here to see you last night?

Daughter—Only Myrtle, Dad.

Dad—Well, tell Myrtle she left her pipe on the piano.

Vegetable Seeds

Canada Is Now Becoming An Important Exporter

Since the war began Canada has changed from an importer of vegetable seeds to a fairly substantial exporter. This has been due largely to the policy introduced early in the war by the Dominion Department of Agriculture under which selected growers have been encouraged by the assurance that the Agricultural Supplies Board would buy, at a stated price, all surplus that could not be sold through normal Canadian channels. The different services of the Department have given practical assistance and co-operation to the growers.

Last year production of various kinds of vegetable seeds in Canada was not only sufficient to meet all domestic requirements but to allow in the 12 months ended March 31, 1945, two million pounds of 13 kinds to be exported, with a value of $1,000,000. Shipments of Canadian produced vegetable seeds of notable vitality were made to Britain, Russia, Holland and for U.N.R.R.A. or Military Relief.

Mystery Of Iodine

Only Perfect Germicide Yet Lack Of It Kills Animals

So important is iodine as a healer, food and germicide, that a special bureau has been formed to disseminate the new knowledge that has come to light of the mystery of iodine. Iodine is the only perfect germicide. Yet a lack of it kills animals. Why? The uses and behaviour of this remarkable element are being more and more extensively studied as its importance in industry, agriculture and medicine are becoming recognized.

Relate Stories Of Jap Cruelty To Prisoners

CALCUTTA.—Seven Canadian airmen and a Canadian army officer, now in India after their release from a Rangoon prison following the Burma capital's capture by British troops, related stories of Japanese mis-treatment.

The liberated men told of face-slapping by their Japanese guards, beatings during questioning and even of ruthless clubbing of one man's injured legs.

Two of the men—Pit. Lt. Kenneth Ivens, of Banff, Alta., and Pit. Lt. M. C. Hankenson, of Hays, Alta.—were flown to India and sent to northeast India to a rest centre after hospital examination.

These other liberated men arrived by hospital ships: Pit. Lt. Herbert Ivens, Scott, Sask.; PO. Keith Cuddy, Sanford, Man.; PO. John Yanola, Blairmore, Alta.; PO. Richard Corbett, Toronto; WO. R. W. Stephens, Windsor, Ont. The name of one other was withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Not strong enough to march with their prisoners removed by the Japanese from Rangoon central jail, these men were left to await arrival of Allied troops. It was they who painted a white swan sign on the roof, telling Allied aviators the enemy had gone.

Pit. Lt. Ivens was shot down last December and his legs were injured. They were bandaged by his captors at first but when he reached the prison the bandages were removed and henceforth he received no medical attention and couldn't walk for two months.

He was interrogated frequently during this period and when he refused to answer his questioners they struck his swollen legs with clubs.

"They didn't get anything out of me because each time they hit I just passed out," he said.

Similar stories of beatings by questioners were told by Pit. Lt. Hankenson who said: "They weren't at all gentle. According to the rules, all information a prisoner can be required to give is his rank, name and number, but that wasn't enough for them. They had a man standing behind me with a club and when the answers didn't suit them I'd get a beating."

"Ever since the American raid on Tokyo in December, 1943, the Japanese have been tough on any fliers they captured. They are treated as ordinary criminals."

The guards liked to act tough, always glaring and threatening. When a sentry passed the door of the cell I had to jump up, go to the door and bow. That went against the grain but I soon learned if I didn't make a bow I got a beating—so I did it."

LIFT RESTRICTIONS

Bus Operators May Now Resume Regular Routes And Schedules

OTTAWA.—Munitions Minister Howe announced that the transit controller's restrictions on the schedules and routes of bus operation have been removed to help meet the steadily-growing demand for public transportation.

"Operators will be able to resume routes and schedules previously restricted, and to extend their routes to areas inadequately served, subject, of course, to provincial regulations," said Mr. Howe.

The relaxations are in line with a policy begun last July, when the 50-mile limit on bus operation was removed, the minister said.

FLYING CEILING

Proposal Is Made To Limit Ceiling Over Calgary

CALGARY.—Enactment of a civic bylaw limiting the flying ceiling over Calgary to at least 1,000 feet was proposed to the city council by Ald. Brown. Present regulations and the city's authority to pass such regulations will be investigated by the legislative committee.

Action resulted from the tragic crash of the Mosquito bomber F. for Freddie in Calgary, when both the crew members were killed.

Ald. Brown felt veterans should neither be allowed nor asked to perform such feats for publicity purposes.

HAS PROUD RECORD

R.A.F. Fighter Command Made Good In Its Big Job

LONDON.—R.A.F. Fighter Command destroyed more than 6,500 enemy aircraft and shot down nearly 2,000 flying bombs in its epic defence of Britain and destructive offensive against the Luftwaffe, an air ministry recapitulation of its 3½-year history showed.

Fighter Command had its baptism of fire Oct. 16, 1939, when it downed three of a dozen German bombers attacking shipping in the Firth of Forth. Its first big job was putting an aerial umbrella over the Dunkirk evacuation in 1940, and R.A.F. pilots downed more than 400 German planes during that fortnight.

Outnumbered as much as eight to one in the battle of Britain in late 1940 and 1941, British pilots flying day and night shot down at least 2,375 enemy raiders, while losing 370 of their own men. The single day record was established Sept. 15, 1940, when 158 German planes were shot down.

In 1941 Britain started its aerial counter-offensive, and fighters participated in growing numbers, finally appearing deep into Germany and Austria. Guarding the homelands against V-weapons, the fighter force shot down nearly 2,000 flying bombs.

WILL CARRY ON

Work Of Women In Canada's Armed Forces Not Finished

OTTAWA.—Plans for the 48,000 women in Canada's armed forces hang in the balance as service chiefs ponder personnel requirements for the Pacific war, the occupation of Germany and home establishments.

However, basic service policy has not been changed—the servicewomen will stay in uniform until their work is done and at present it is far from done.

The answer to the question: "Will any servicewomen go to the Pacific theatre?" is still "we don't know." There is a possibility, however.

One spokesman for Wrens said, "If the Wrens are needed there they will be sent, but we don't know at present whether or not they will be needed." The Wrens, along with the rest of the navy are being asked to re-volunteer for the duration of the Pacific war but, the spokesman emphasizes this does not mean they will be sent to the Pacific theatre.

Present plans for the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) and C.W.A.C. do not include Pacific service. However, a big job in prospect for the girls in khaki and air force blue is to continue their work in France and Belgium and possibly go to Germany with the Canadian occupation forces.

ALLIES MAKE RULES

Regulations Laid Down By Military Government In Occupied Germany

LONDON.—The Flensburg radio in a broadcast reported by the BBC said English had been made the official language in occupied Germany under rules laid down by the Allied military government.

Other regulations which the German station's broadcast said had been "made public by posters," included: Dissolution of the National Socialist (Nazi) party.

Abolition of the ministry for propaganda.

Prohibition of German publications, radio broadcasts, theatrical entertainments and motion pictures.

Establishment of a curfew forbidding German nationals to leave their houses between 10:15 p.m. and 6:30 a.m. up to May 15 and between 10:45 p.m. and 6 a.m. from May 16 to May 31.

Repeal of such Nazi laws as those against creation of new parties; safeguarding the unity of party and state; against underhand attacks on the state and party; the law for protection of German blood and honor; and the Hitler youth law.

WILL CELEBRATE LATER

LONDON.—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons that no formal victory parade and celebrations would be held in Britain until Japan is defeated.

Demand For Speedy Trial Of War Criminals

LONDON.—Amid rising criticism of the "coddling" of German prisoners of war and demands for a speedy trial for top-flight war criminals, the United Nations war crimes commission announced that an international conference on German war crimes would begin in London May 31.

In Paris, Allied supreme headquarters said 10-man teams from the war crimes branch of the European theatre judge advocate section were conducting widespread investigation of crimes committed by the Nazis against Allied military personnel as well as civilians.

Claimer against the Allied treatment of German war criminals continued in the British press with the News Chronicle declaring that "public indignation is now hardening into public consternation."

"Remembering Darian, remembering Badoglio," the editorial said, "the people are asking can it indeed be that the Allied authorities are preparing another and even more cynical farce?"

The Daily Mirror complained about the "coddling" of Willy Messerschmitt, once Germany's top plane designer who was brought to London four weeks ago to make his technical knowledge available to the Allies.

The Mirror said Field Marshal Erhard Milch, inspector general of the German air force, and Panzer Gen. Hasso Eckhardt Von Manteuffel are prisoners in a British camp at Luenburg, and it complained that they were living on champagne, eggs and custard.

"Getting food from the outside is in accordance with regulations," the newspaper said. "But the British troops guarding these two captured Nazis—and 62 other high-rankers—have to live on army rations."

War Material Is To Be Sent To The Pacific

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Paris.—All usable American war material no longer needed in Europe will be transferred to the Pacific theatre as quickly as possible, most of it being shipped directly, Brig-Gen. Morris W. Gilland, deputy chief of staff for supply in the European theatre of operations, disclosed.

In contrast, practically all Canadian army equipment will be left in Europe. Roas Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, learned. Munro reported from the 1st Canadian army sector that troops returning home will take only personal kit with them and may not even carry back rifles and other small arms.

Final disposition of Canadian equipment was not known, Munro said, although it was believed some would be used to arm reformed Belgian and Dutch forces and those of other liberated countries. Some also is earmarked for China. The Canadian Far East Force will get new American equipment.

Calling this theatre a major base for the Pacific, Gen. Gilland outlined a broad program of redeployment of equipment, material and supplies which his organization must handle while still supporting troops remaining on the continent.

Troops going directly to the Pacific will take all their equipment with them, Gen. Gilland said. Those going to the United States will carry only their maximum essential equipment, leaving the rest behind to be serviced and then sent directly to the Pacific.

The entire supply policy in the future will be based on needs in the Pacific. It is up to the war department to decide the disposition of the excess—all above the needs in this theatre.

LANCASTER PLANES

Canadian Bomber Crews May Fly These Back To Canada

LONDON.—A move is afoot whereby Canadian bomber crews now in the United Kingdom will fly back to Canada since 160 Canadian-built Lancasters no longer needed here because of the end of the war in Europe, it is understood. While the plan has not been yet decided upon definitely, it is reported under discussion on the "highest possible" level in London and Ottawa.

APPEAR ON BALCONY.—As London celebrated V-E day uproariously, Prime Minister Winston Churchill appeared on the balcony at Buckingham Palace with the King and Queen. The King is shown waving at the cheering crowd.

"BIG FOUR" LEADERS.—Leaders of the "Big Four" delegations at the United Nations world security conference in San Francisco, photographed together for the first time shortly after news was received of the Nazi capitulation in Holland, Denmark and northwest Germany. They are, left to right, Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign secretary; U.S. Secretary of State Edward Stettinius, Jr.; Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, and T. V. Soong, chairman of the Chinese delegation.

THANKS HIS MEN.—Grateful leader Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, of First Canadian Army, thanks men of his headquarters staff for their loyalty during the tremendous days between D-day and V-E day.

CHANGE IN SELECTIVE SERVICE PERMITS FOR WOMEN WORKERS

A change in the Selective Service job permit system as affecting women workers is announced by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor.

For some time Selective Service regulations have specified that both men and women require the permission of Selective Service before approaching employers about jobs, and employers have been required to have Selective Service permission before discussing an engagement with applicants.

The change being put into effect immediately is to convert the present permit system into a plan which (a) will require that separations of women from payrolls must be reported by employers and women, too, and (b) when a new position is located and new engagement made the fact shall be reported.

The labor minister made it clear that there is no change being made at present in regard to the regulations covering men. Male applicants for employment will still require Selective Service permits before they may legally look for jobs.

The objective is to continue to have in the offices of the employment service complete information and particulars of vacant positions available in Canada, and also details regarding applicants, including women, available to fill them. Experience has proven that the best way to obtain that objective is to have both separations from employment and placements reported.

Under the new plan a woman may either report at the employment office when separated from a position and obtain a permit to seek a new job anywhere she wishes, provided she reports when she has started in a new position, or, in the alternative, a woman may locate a position and accept it if she reports the facts within three days of being hired by an employer.

Selective Service control over advertising for women applicants will also be lifted for the present, but employers wishing to secure male workers through advertising will still require Selective Service authority to advertise.

With the termination of hostilities in Europe, Hon. Mr. Mitchell stated, the government is desirous of relaxing any wartime control which is not further required. Although there still are labor shortages, it is felt that as an experiment the relaxation of Selective Service control over women seeking employment may now be tried out on an experimental basis. If the relaxation insofar as women is concerned does not adversely affect the general situation, and there is no reason to believe that it will, then consideration will be given to making permanent the change in the permit system covering women. We consulted the National Selective Service advisory board, which represents trade unions, employers, agriculture, veterans and others, and the board favored trying out this change in our permit system.

The labor minister added that the regulation requiring women who are employed for seven days to maintain a live registration at the employment office while still out of work, would continue, and seven days' notice of separation will still be necessary, where women are leaving employment.

Also, the minister stressed, employers are still required by Selective Service to report any employment vacancies, whether for men or for women, or any impending layoffs, to the nearest employment office.

Liberal Working Plan for Full Post-War Employment...

For Veterans—$750,000,000 to get them started in good paying jobs in industry, on the land or in business for themselves as each of them chooses.

Working—$400,000,000 to finance the biggest building scheme this country has ever known.

Family Allowances—$210,000,000 a year to lessen the burdens of parenthood and to equalize the opportunities of young Canadians for success and happiness.

Export Credits—We've got to have exports if we're going to have jobs. Your Liberal Government has arranged to finance war-wrecked countries who will be good customers later.

Industrial Development Bank—Your Liberal Government has set up machinery to help encouraging Canadians develop new business.

Farm Loans—One man in every three in Canada works on the farm. To help them get better equipment, your Liberal Government has arranged that they can borrow the money they need for better working and living conditions.

Floor Prices—The Liberal Government's policy is that when farmers and fishermen prosper, so do other Canadians. It has therefore taken action to put a floor under the prices of farm and fishery products.

Reduction of Taxes—Your Liberal Government believes in jobs first. To this end, taxes will come down to free spending power.

These are just some of many steps in the Liberal Government's Working Plan to ensure full employment after the war. In addition it has stimulated tremendous private savings in Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates; put through Unemployment Insurance; set up a special Department of Reconstruction staffed by experts. In fact all its policies are directed to the same end—a "high and stable level of employment and income."

JOBS! Jobs with bright futures for the young men and women coming out of the Armed Services with the best part of their lives before them! Jobs for all! Jobs with big prospects and good, reliable money that will keep its buying power! After all the hard work, sacrifice and self-discipline which has brought us through the war, the people of this country have earned a brighter future in a better, juster, grander Canada than we have ever known!

LOOK how much Canadians have accomplished, here on the home front, even without the energy and initiative of all the vigorous young people now in uniform, and their zest for daring! What is there Canada can't do with them back on the home team? Why, with their help, we Canadians are headed full speed for the greatest period in our history!

THE all-important question today is the civilian staff-work and leadership which we call "government." The Liberals have a working plan. It's big and bold! Parts of it are outlined for your judgment in the left-hand column. It has been designed with the aid of the keenest minds in every phase of industry, agriculture, labour and learning. The plan will work. In fact it is already bringing results. It will continue to do so! The Liberals can tell you this with confidence because they have had successful experience in operating nationwide plans.

VOTE for your Liberal candidate. Make sure the team which made this plan for full employment shall see it through—and win the peace!

John Bracken—The Farmer

On the 11th of December, 1942, John Bracken stood in the Auditorium in Winnipeg before a great concourse of people. John Bracken—the Farmer—was accepting the leadership of a great resurgent people's party. In ringing tones he was speaking of "The People's Charter". And the soul-searching sincerity of this man of the soil, with his vision of Canada, of Canadians and the "world of plenty that lies within our grasp" was deeply moving.

Picture the background of this man—this moment. John Bracken, the farm boy, on his father's farm in Ontario, milking, haying, carrying in the wood, plowing... then young Bracken, honours student at the Ontario Agricultural College going to Manitoba as representative of the Department of Agriculture... on to Saskatchewan as Superintendent of Farms and Farmers' Institutes and Secretary of the Provincial Livestock Association... then, later, John Bracken, author, writing books about farms, farming, farmers...

And now years later, in Winnipeg, John Bracken, the farmer, is speaking of "the right of farmers and other primary producers to a fair share of the nation's income." Notice the simplicity of the language he uses, clear, concise—sincere.

"During the last decade," he is saying, "farm income fell to such a low average as to become of very great concern in our Canadian economy. It is the responsibility of the nation to see that this great inequity shall not be perpetuated."

Then, suddenly his voice rises, becomes even clearer, more incisive. "I may say quite frankly that if it had not been for that plank in your platform which provides for a square deal for agriculture, I would not be here."

Two years later, in Alliston, Ontario,—again the same simplicity, the moving sincerity.

"I am an agrarian," said John Bracken, "and I am a Canadian... who seeks to correct the major social injustice of our day—the unfairly small share of the national income that goes to farmers and farm women and farm workers." Then, with a statesman's enlargement of vision, he added, "When the injustice to the farmer is removed, the economy of Canada as a whole will be strengthened."

No one could be less parochial in his outlook—more deeply concerned with national welfare than John Bracken, the farmer who embarked twenty years ago on a career so successful as to be without precedent in contemporary political history within the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Real Social Security or Rationed Scarcity?

To the political and economic reactionary, Social Security is something to be used as a bribe to win votes—a sop to soothe unrest. Social makesbiffs of that kind are actually offered to-day as political substitutes for sound, economic planning for the post-war reconstruction of Canada.

To the State Socialist, on the other hand, Social Security is a bookish theory seeking to prove that poverty would be much more endurable if only it were much more general.

The Progressive Conservative Party is pledged to provide, without delay, a uniform and comprehensive social security programme for all Canadians, including:

And now, listen for a moment to John Bracken, the forthright leader of the Progressive Conservative Party:—"The State here in Canada, unlike in Germany, is the servant of the people, not its master. Finance, and economic mechanisms associated with it, must likewise be regarded as the servants, not the masters, of our economy. The underwriting of prosperity AND social security is a proper function of the State."

Notice how closely prosperity and social security are linked together.

We are determined that Social Security shall no longer be regarded as a charity but as what it is—a social obligation and national responsibility of the very first magnitude and importance. Social Security must grow with prosperity—because the degree to which social services may be provided is determined by the size of the national income. We are pledged to maintain that income at a high prosperous level. It is against this background of plenty for all, that the Progressive Conservatives see Social Security.

Compare this positive and complete programme with the make-shift expedients of other parties. No other party can equal or even approach John Bracken's guarantee of security for all Canadians.

It's rational security—NOT rationed scarcity.

GARDEN NOTES

Showy Flowers

An amazing showing can be made with a few annual flowers and will very little effort. Cosmos, giant marigolds, zinnias, petunias, portulacas, nicotiana glauca, are easily grown almost anywhere in Canada. Some of the larger flowers like cosmos and marigolds and nicotiana can actually be used in the place of shrubs.

Time can be saved, of course, by buying ready started bedding plants. For husky growth, tall cosmos, gladioli, dahlias, giant marigolds and zinnias should have about 2 feet each way. Petunias need about a foot apart for best results.

Keep It Up

Pre-planting cultivation is vital of course to prepare the soil deeply and properly for seeds and plants. But the beginner will make a great mistake if he stops all cultivation once the seeds have germinated and the plants start growing. Then it will pay handsomely in fresh, tender vegetables and abundant bloom if one makes a practice of a quick going-over the garden with a light cultivator once a week. This will kill weeds, keep growth going and will conserve moisture. With constant cultivation it is possible to grow good vegetables almost in the driest weather, and quickly the job is performed where one does it regularly and the soil does not get a chance to bake and the weeds to really get established.

For Support

Staking is useful for tall plants, or those trimmed tall like tomatoes. Big, tall perennials like delphiniums and hollyhocks are quite liable to keel over in a high wind or during a sharp thunder shower and make the whole garden look a mess. Stakes about an inch thick and wide, and as tall as necessary will hold these plants and also train tomatoes firmly in place. They need not be conspicuous if driven in behind the plants and they can always be staked brown or green. Plants should be tied to them loosely with soft twine or raffia.

GROWTH IS RAPID

Asparagus grows as much as six inches in a day. It must be picked every day quickly because it grows so fast in warm weather. Stalks a few inches above the ground at daylight must be picked by noon, or they become too tough and coarse to make the best quality.

It is common to men to err; but it is only a fool that perseveres in his error; a wise man alters his opinion, a fool never.

An Evil Philosophy

The Lust For Military Power In Germany Must Be Eradicated

The Hitlerite foe has been defeated on the field of battle. But Hitlerism as an evil philosophy still remains to be exterminated. The war will have been in vain if Hitlerism survives Hitler.

It will be a long and difficult task. After the last war, the people of the Allied world thought they had conquered what was then known as Prussian militarism when the German armies capitulated. "Prussian militarism" was a phrase which really denoted the German lust for power. It was not conquered.

Almost before the ink on the Treaty of Versailles was dry, the Germans were thinking of the next war for power. The Junkers, the intellectuals, the riff-raff and the discontented began to lay plans. Then Hitler came on the scene, and in ten years had risen from an obscure malcontent to be the chancellor of Germany.

As soon as his real character was revealed, which was immediately after he came to power, he became the focal centre for the apprehensions of free mankind. He began to suppress, then he began to attack. He raved and ranted over the radio until his voice became the symbol of violence and fear. He is gone now, but it is hard to remember that the real enemy was not this misfit, this essentially cheap rattle-rouser, but the ideas he represented.

Hitler called himself fuhrer. But he was in fact the servant of the forces of evil in Germany which hoped to gain from what he offered. He talked of Aryanism, of blood and soil, of race purity, lebensraum and similar nonsensical conceptions. But his single aim was power, and his single goal the elevation of the German people to the role of "master race".

It is this evil creed that has to be eliminated. It is not a matter of a purge of Germany. Far more drastic treatment of that nation which thrives three times in a century has attempted world conquest is demanded than any yet receiving official approval. The danger is that it is now Germany must be cleansed for the last time.—Ottawa Citizen.

End Was Appropriate

History Has Been Written In Dismantling Of Germany

This is an inglorious end as history could write—but an appropriate end for a Government that was born in a beer hall, whose bible was written in a prison cell by a man found guilty of treason, a Government which operated without ideals and had as its fundamental purpose loot and murder. This disintegration we have witnessed cannot be distorted by another Goebbels. History has been written this time too plainly to be changed. Let the beginning of Nazism stand forever as a warning. Let its obscene end be remembered as a lesson.—New York Times.

ON BOTH SIDES

H. R. Knickerbocker, war correspondent, says that last time he was in Italy he dined with a group which included an Italian nobleman of some minor distinction. Eventually the conversation turned towards the course of the conflict. "But my dear fellow," said the Italian, who affected a British manner and accent, "you cannot possibly know as much about the war as I do. You see, we have been on both sides!"—Wall Street Journal.

Reporter Pays Visit To The Place Where The Kaiser Lived In Exile
(By Maurice Desjardins)

Doorn, Holland, is a little city of 5,000 and is one of the best known in the world, for here stands the stately "Huis Doorn" where the late Kaiser chopped and sawed wood in a slate-roofed shed until he died here June 4, 1941.

Janitor Armand Labouchere, a Dutchman of French Huguenot descent, showed me through the palace grounds.

First we visited the famous woodshed, then the guest house, where two priceless Watteaus still hang in the crown prince's room. Across a moat on the right side of the castle squats a square mausoleum where the emperor's body lies in a red velvet coffin.

I was the first Allied war correspondent to visit the palace and probably the first newspaperman of all time, for Doorn was no tourist place, but a haven of privacy.

The castle has not been lived in since the Kaiser's death, but every one of scores of expensive clocks there still keep exact time.

Labouchere, a retired Doorn policeman, ushered me into the reception hall where the furniture and Gobelin tapestries are relics of the time of Frederick the Great.

The Nazis left Doorn alone during their occupation of the Netherlands: Only a few officers visited here for the majority were afraid they'd be accused of making a pilgrimage to the Hohenzollern shrine.

There are bigger-than-life-size pictures of the Kaiser hanging in every room in the palace.

In the rooms are objects worth millions of dollars—rosewood bookshelves, a gem-studded suit of armor, marble chairs, Sevres vases and exquisite miniatures.

I also saw the emperor's den and the saddle he used to sit on while writing letters.

There is truly regal luxury in every apartment which leaves one gasping. Half a dozen good Mercedes-Benz limousines are standing in the garage in running order, to be used by no one knows who. Labouchere says even the Dutch government—which appointed him to the janitor post—has not decided who will be the next tenant of the "Huis Doorn."

What Electricity Is Expected To Do On Big Bombers

Electricity aboard a big bomber is called upon to perform the following tasks: Start the engines, change the propeller pitch, raise and lower the landing gear, open and close the bomb bay doors, manipulate the flaps and brakes, run the bombights, release the bombs, turn the gun turrets, compute the gunners' sights, fire the guns, detect and identify ground units by radar waves, and provide light and heat for the crew.

FOREST FIRE LOSS

The greatest loss occurring in forest fire is not the destruction of mature trees, but the ruination of young growth, and charring of the forest floor, since much of the older timber still can be utilized.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

For Women
There's Waiting

By MARCIA DAUGHTLEY

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The report was brought in to the general, who, more diplomat than martinet, liked to handle such things personally. In effect, the field workers claimed that the area over which manoeuvres for his corps were to be held had been provided by eager farmers. Much of the land was not under cultivation; it possessed the desired hillocks, streams, rocky terrain; it was inaccessible to the curious.

"There's just this one hitch—right?" he said to his aide.

"Yes, sir. It seems this farm wife in the middle of the area—absolutely refuses to let us use this wooded section." He indicated a district on the contour map. "She's a mite of a woman. No bigger than this"—flattening his palm some four feet ten inches above the floor—"and she has the prettiest head of snow-white hair I've ever seen. Also, she has a Springfield with which she can smash a bottle sitting on a fence post as far as from here to the next building."

The general measured the distance with his eyes. His eyebrows went up, and his lower lip pouted—a habit he had. "Maybe we should draft her," he said. Then, "I'll fly down and have a talk with her. Find out what her objections are, exactly. Did you notice whether she seemed to be much of a cook?"

The aide looked puzzled. "No, sir, I didn't notice."

"If you can get a woman to making doughnuts or cookies for a bunch of hungry boys—you've made an army convert," the general observed, chuckling.

There was a car waiting for him at the airport; it took him over an hour to reach the farm, which consisted of rolling hills where a herd of whitefaces were grazing, a thriving vegetable garden, a big red barn and a trig white house with a screened porch on three sides.

A cat and two dogs came to meet the general. The cat arched herself against his leg and the dogs showed an inclination to kiss his face. "What kind of guard duty is this?" he demanded gruffly, scratching behind their ears.

Not until he reached the door did the dogs set up a furor while the cat climbed the screen and clung there. A small woman, wearing a blue and white apron, came out on the porch. "I don't want anything," she said, her black eyebrows drawn together in a fierce scowl. "Be on your way before I give you a round for trespassing."

"I'm not selling anything. I simply want to talk to you."

"What kind of uniform you wearing. You another one of these army pests?"

He inhaled deeply of the aroma coming from the kitchen. "Fresh bread! It's been years since I had a bit of new-baked bread."

"If you think you can get around me by sweet-talking, you've got another thing a-coming. Step lively—don't let all the flies in," she ordered. She poured milk into a tall tumbler and handed it to the general, then she placed a pat of butter on a blue plate, added hot rolls and homemade grape jelly. "There," she said, bringing her lips tightly together, "that's better than you'll get in any officers' mess."

Between bites the general said, "I suppose you know I've come about using your grove during manoeuvres?"

"I gave my answer to that young fellow the one with a mustache. I said 'No.'"

"Why?"

"Because I don't believe in war." "That's a fine crop of potatoes you have in your garden," the general observed, munching with relish. "Did the plants come up just of their own accord?"

"I hope you know more about tactics than you do about vegetables," the woman snorted. "I planted them."

"So you have to plant them every season—they just don't grow of themselves from year to year. Have any trouble with bugs?"

"Ever see a potato patch without its bugs? Sure I have to fight bugs. Sometimes I have web worms to contend with, too."

"Well, there it is," the general said calmly. "Liberty and the threat of individual dignity aren't hard perennials. They have to be cultivated each new generation. About every twenty-five years the crop is threatened by a scourge of insects that have to be stamped out. I want to have a couple of divisions of men in here to practice the stamping-out process."

The little woman poured another glass of milk for the general. "You're a smart talker," she admitted, her voice husky. "If I say Yes, can I ride along in one of those armored cars I saw in the movies?"

"It's against the regulations, of course. Still, in gratitude for the use of your land, I might arrange for you to take a ride Sunday before manoeuvres start." He arose and shook hands. "Sunday, then, at ten."

The little woman pushed the general's car kick up a cloud of dust on the road before she walked briskly back into her parlor. On the mantel were three pictures of men in uniform.

"You," she said to the eldest, "went off to the Philippines and left me with three children to bring up. And you, son, ran away and joined up to get to France. And you, third-generation fire-eater, wouldn't let me rest until I told you to Pensacola. For men there's excitement and change and novelty in this Army business. For women there's only waiting and loneliness and heart-wrings. But here's one woman to beat the game. I'm going to get some excitement out of this fracas by riding in one of those Army bugs if it's the last thing I ever do."

"Hm. I sure had to hold out a long time before I got together with the man who could fix it up. I certainly did."

Paid Plenty For Some Distilled Water Used For Car Batteries

A woman car-owner, allowed a national importance, bought some distilled water for topping up her batteries. The water was contained in two gin bottles, bearing the label of a well-known proprietary brand, and these she left lying on the back seat of her car while she went into another shop to make some purchases. When she came out the bottles were gone, and in their place was a slip of paper bearing this inscription, hastily scrawled in pencil: "Sorry but we really do need it." Pinned to the slip of paper was a $1 treasury note.—Leeds Yorkshire Post.

ISN'T SO SMALL!

Ordinarily one Canadian in every six gainfully employed, earns his livelihood in a "small business." It may be a farm, a store or a lumber-yard; an architect's office or a service station. Taken together, these individual enterprises provide a very substantial part of Canada's total jobs—must continue to do so after the war.

During the years ahead many people who dropped small business for war reasons will want to return to their accustomed or new ways of making a living. Thus old businesses will be revived. Many new ones will be started by returned men and people now in war industries. The commercial banks will do their part to afford assurance that no sound credit requirement need be left unserved in the field of small business.

As such businesses grow, they create additional job openings; that has been the pattern of Canadian enterprises. Most large companies began in a small way. And practically all could name some bank which played a part in their growth by providing the loans they needed to finance their day-to-day operations.

Your bank stands ready to serve businesses, small or large, well established or just starting out. Banks do not initiate such businesses—but they do furnish necessary working capital and many other forms of banking service.

No fewer than 94 out of every hundred establishments in the manufacturing, wholesale, retail and services fields are small, employing less than 15 people. Together they employ 37% of all the workers engaged in these classes of business.
